

Walking Tracker

Three routines, conversation prompts and a weekly tracker · Module 3, Training 2

The prescription

Twenty minutes, most days, at a pace where you can talk but not sing. Outside, near trees or water if you can. Morning for light and sleep rhythm; after dinner for blood sugar and cravings. Three walks this week is the action (40 XP).

Why it works: moderate activity linked to better odds of conception at every body size (Wise et al., Fertility and Sterility); sunlight makes vitamin D (Holick, NEJM); a nature walk reduces rumination (Bratman et al., PNAS); a 15-minute brisk walk reduced chocolate cravings (Oh & Taylor, Appetite).

Three routines

ROUTINE	WHEN	WHAT	WHY
Morning light	within an hour of waking	out the door, no phone, 20 min, home for breakfast	vitamin D, anchors sleep rhythm, sets the day
After-dinner loop	20–60 min after dinner	the same route every evening so it becomes automatic	blood sugar, the cravings hour, wind-down
Weekend long walk	Saturday or Sunday	45+ min somewhere beautiful, thermos at the end	mood, connection, hits the weekly 150 minutes

Make it happen: shoes by the door the night before · walk before you sit down · invite someone.

Conversation prompts (no logistics for the first 10 minutes)

- What are you looking forward to this month?
- What would our Sunday mornings look like in five years?
- What's been hard this week that you haven't said out loud?
- What did you love doing as a child that you've stopped doing?
- What's one thing I do that makes you feel supported? One thing I could do more of?
- If we could keep only one of our routines from this course, which would it be?
- What are you afraid to hope for?

Solo walkers: call a friend, a sibling or a parent, or walk with a podcast and use the prompts as journal questions afterwards.

Total walks: _____ (goal 3+) · Total minutes: _____ · Best conversation: _____

A 20-minute walk $\approx$ 2,000 steps. Don't chase 10,000; chase three walks.

Couples' note

You may walk at different natural paces. Walk at the pace of the slower person; the conversation is the workout.
